| Preparing the tea |
|-------------------|

|-----------------------------------|
| Recipe 1.- By P. Mac Pherson (UK) |
|-----------------------------------|

|--|
| Within 20 minutes or so after a cup of this tea, I begin to feel a sense of well-being. I feel both relaxed and energetic at the same time. It helps a lot with my bowel pain and regulates BMs. It also helps me focus, in spite of my adult attention deficit disorder. I need very little of my prescription medication when I drink this tea. It is almost too good to be true! I pack a tea pot somewhat firmly with leaves, fill with water and bring to a boil then let simmer for 20 minutes. This makes a dark concentrate that I then refrigerate. I dilute an ounce or two of this with water for the desired strength and sweeten with sugar. I recommend you start with a light amber colored solution at first - This is very powerful tea. One cup at 8:00 AM, another at 2:00 PM works best for me. I don't drink any after 5:00 PM as it may keep me awake that night. |
|--|

|--------|
| |
|--------|

|----------------------------------|
| Recipe 2.- By Benoit G. (France) |
|----------------------------------|

|---|
| This recipe is very good, warming and stimulating, perfect for cold winter days. The amount of leaves to use depends on taste, I would 15 grams (15 teabags) for one liter is a good base. Surprisingly the taste doesn't vary much with more coca. |
|---|

| |
|---|
| take one liter of red wine (I use Bordeaux wine) |
|---|

|--|
| add 4 teaspoons of brown sugar (to taste) |
|--|

| |
|----------------------|
| 4 sticks of cinnamon |
|----------------------|

|------------------------------------|
| one tablespoonful of grated ginger |
|------------------------------------|

|-----------------|
| 4 cardamom pods |
|-----------------|

|--------------------------------------|
| 4 star anise seed pods (badian anis) |
|--------------------------------------|

|----------|
| 5 cloves |
|----------|

|--------------------------|
| 1 teaspoon grated nutmeg |
|--------------------------|

|---|
| a dash of liquor, say, brandy, or cognac, or even a little rum or whiskey (to taste) |
|---|

|---|
| half a sliced orange or two tablespoons of orange juice |
|---|

|---|
| a tablespoon of lemon juice or a lemon peel |
|---|

| |
|-------------------------|
| 15 grams of coca leaves |
|-------------------------|

|---|
| Put wine, coca and spices and orange + lemon in a pot and stir. Put pot on a gentle heat while stirring for a few minutes, then bring to a boil for a few seconds, then bring the heat down to barely simmering. Add the sugar and liquor. Cover and let sit for 5 minutes, then serve in mugs, filtering with a strainer. Enjoy ! |

| Coca Wine |
| Model : Andante |
| martes 15 julio, 2008 |
| Semi-dry red wine of low alcoholic content ,which contains an appropriate amount of coca leaf extract and aromatic spices. All this gives as a result a controlled levels of alkaloids and micro-nutrients, according to official analyses and certificates.It is important to mention that the extract of coca leaves in wine brings all of its active elements and benefits, such as minerals ,vitamins and aminoacids, of which we can highlight calcium, iron, phosphorus, and vitamin A and B complex. The wine is also rich with tannins, flavonoids, salicilates and many other beneficial substances for our health.The main qualities and benefits of this wine are follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> It's a natural invigorating wine of prompt action. Suppresses fatigue and stress. Equilibrates and raises mood. Help heart and circulation system health Relieves throat inflammation and hoarseness. Improves muscular tone and activity. Original and pleasant taste. With respect to the amount of alkaloids, this levels are similar or higher, than coca tea. Nevertheless, the fusion between the wine and coca extracts produce a synergy of interesting results. |

| Canchalagua, Centaurium Cachañahuén, is a small herbaceous plant native to South America. Andean healers recommend its use as a way to improve and support healthy look of the skin. Topically, the infusion of the herb is applied directly to pimple and blackheads. Internally, is used to promote and support normal metabolism and blood cleansing, which can also lead to overall improvement of the skin as it is regarded as tonic for both the liver and kidneys (malfunctioning of these organ can lead in many cases, to skin problems). |

Tocosh Caps

Model : VN

martes 01 diciembre, 2009

 DescriptionTocosh: "Product obtained from fermented potato pulp, it is processed in a way that activates the natural antibiotic (penicillin), known as a preservative in the body.It also contains alkaloids, steroids, amino acids, Antimicrobial.Strengthens the immune system. Combat stomach ulcers, chronic gastritis, and respiratory disorders. It was considered by the Incas as a gift from God.

 Recommended Use: Take 1 or 2 capsules after meals; do not exceed 6 capsules per day.

 Presentation: Bottle x 100 capsules 350 mg

 Potato was considered one of the greatest displays of affection, and its processes for consumption provided other Divine intervention. This applies to the preparation of "Tocosh" which was defined as the preservation of the body. Preparation occurred at the river. They (the Incas) dug a pond on the banks of the river and introduced chosen potatoes as they were in a net of bunch grass ICHU (paja andina), once introduced into the pools, pressed with many stones and let river water coursing through space from 06 to 12 months. The water flowing through these wells began to transform the potato, the same as that generated a natural and very effective antibiotic.

| Manufacturer : Andina Real |
| Yacon, Smallanthus sonchifolia. |
| Research has proven that is beneficial for those with hypertension. By thinning the blood Yacon can lower blood pressure by 5 to 10 percent. It can also lower cholesterol and discourage clot formation. Unfortunately, Yacon has a reputation for being a Diabetes but it is also excellent to reduce the hypertension problems.. |
| Dr. H Brams said yacon roots themselves had not been proven to have the same palliative effect as the Yacon leaves. Even so, yacon is now popularly associated in Peru with diabetes, though other benefits such as its laxative quality and ability to help prevent colon cancer and osteoporosis are less well known. |

|---|

| |
|-----------------|
| From Wikipedia: |
|-----------------|

|--|
| Since pre-Inca times, salt has been obtained in Maras by evaporating salty water from a local subterranean stream. The highly salty water emerges at a spring, a natural outlet of the underground stream. The flow is directed into an intricate system of tiny channels constructed so that the water runs gradually down onto the several hundred ancient terraced ponds. Almost all the ponds are less than four meters square in area, and none exceeds thirty centimeters in depth. |
|--|

|---|
| All are necessarily shaped into polygons with the flow of water carefully controlled and monitored by the "farmers". The altitude of the ponds slowly decreases, so that the water may flow through the myriad branches of the water-supply channels and be introduced slowly through a notch in one sidewall of each pond. The proper maintenance of the adjacent feeder channel, the side walls and the water-entry notch, the pond's bottom surface, the quantity of water, and the removal of accumulated salt deposits requires close cooperation among the community of users. It is agreed among local residents and pond "farmers" that the cooperative system was established during the time of the Incas, if not earlier. As water evaporates from the sun-warmed ponds, the water becomes supersaturated and salt precipitates as various size crystals onto the inner surfaces of a pond's earthen walls and on the pond's earthen floor. The pond's keeper then closes the water-feeder notch and allows the pond to go dry. |
|---|

|--|
| Within a few days the keeper carefully scrapes the dry salt from the sides and bottom, puts it into a suitable vessel, reopens the water-supply notch, and carries away the salt. Color of the salt varies from white to a light reddish or brownish tan, depending on the skill of an individual "farmer". Some salt is sold at a gift store nearby. |
|--|

|---|
| The salt mines traditionally have been available to any person wishing to harvest salt. Usually there are many unused salt pools available to be farmed. Any prospective salt farmer need only locate an empty currently unmaintained pond, consult with the local informal cooperative, learn how to keep a pond properly within the accepted communal system, and start working. |

| Peruvian Potato Chips |
| Model : Vlapapa |
| miércoles 10 agosto, 2011 |
| 3 rare varieties of peruvian potato chips from Andean mountains (5 oz per bag): |
| Anticucho BBQ is a flavor that needs little introduction to aficionados of Peruvian cooking. It is one of the most famous dishes in Peru, usually eaten in the wee hours of the morning from a smoky roadside charcoal grill. We have left out the meat and the charcoal (it weighs too&nbsp;much!) but kept a hint of smoke with tomato, onion, red peppers, garlic and a sprinkle of chillies. Mixed chillies & Lime packs a punch. There are plenty of hot chips around, some with the faintest trace of chilli and others that blast your head off. We use a smooth blend of bell peppers and red chilli adding a generous splash of lime. Spicy and tangy like the very best Peruvian dishes; best quaffed with an ice cold drink of your choice and ideally on a beach of your choice. Peruvian Pink Salt. Near Cusco at 2500 meters above sea level is a special place called Maras. For as long as local communities can recall, the salt pans of Maras have yielded a delicate salt with a pink tinge. Myths abound over the origin of the salty water that springs up but whatever the truth, Sal de Maras is high in Iron, Magnesium and Zinc which is jolly nice. |
